ANNUAL REPORT 2023

Wellness House envisions a community where all people affected by cancer THRIVE.

In 1990, Wellness House was formed by a group of people who came together with a single purpose: to better the lives of people living with cancer. Since opening our doors, nearly 48,000 individuals, family members and caregivers have found a supportive community that lifted the burden and hardships of cancer.

Today, we offer a variety of programs and services at our main location in Hinsdale, partner locations all around Chicagoland and online programs that can be viewed from anywhere. In FY23, 3,364 people attended exercise classes, nutrition seminars, support groups, stress management classes, events and more — all free and more accessible than ever.

Together, we are connected and form a compassionate community of hope. More than 6,000 in-person and online programs were delivered across 35 states in the last year because of advances in technology, partner and healthcare collaborations and a collective mission to make sure no one faces cancer alone. Together, we're creating a better quality of life for individuals and families going through the difficulties of cancer.

Together, we change lives.

Alyssa and Chris

Alyssa and Chris Kelly's cancer journey was a harrowing experience. She was diagnosed with stage four colon cancer while twenty-seven weeks pregnant. At first, she and her husband Chris thought it was discomfort related to the pregnancy, but as the pain levels increased from intolerable to excruciating the couple sought medical expertise from Northwestern Memorial Hospital in downtown Chicago. Frightened and worried about their unborn baby, Alyssa and her husband did their best to hold onto their faith. Alyssa went through six rounds of chemotherapy, while pregnant.

"I was shocked and scared that the cancer would destroy our lives," said Alyssa. "I just couldn't believe this was happening to us and we weren't sure what to expect."

A few months into treatment, Alyssa and Chris joined an online support community, Colontown, where they learned about Wellness House. Chris wanted to support Alyssa and joined the Wellness House Caregiver Support Group, which he felt made all the difference.

"When cancer happens to you, you feel pretty alone, and you feel like no one can relate to you," said Chris. "But the caregiver group at Wellness House was such a magical experience because it was filled with supportive people who understood what we were going through."

Chris was able to support Alyssa as she went through medical procedures and helped them both navigate complex emotions that came with a cancer diagnosis during pregnancy. Alyssa later attended Wellness House and found community with people going through the same thing.

"I could tell there was a difference in both of us after we started going to Wellness House," said Alyssa.

Dear Friends,

There is an old Kenyan proverb that says, “sticks in a bundle are unbreakable.” When people come together for a common cause, each bringing their own strengths and contributions, the collective outcome cannot be broken. When we look back on our community of supporters this past year, no description could be truer. Together, we have changed the lives of over 3,360 individuals and families facing cancer.

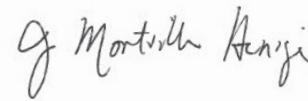

When cancer is diagnosed, it can be hard to know where to turn. Fortunately, when it comes to living well, people turn to Wellness House. In the following pages you will read about just a few of the thousands of people who turned to Wellness House in their time of need. Alyssa and Chris share their story of being diagnosed with cancer at 27 weeks pregnant and how the support groups at Wellness House made all the difference. Alejandra and Kim talk about finding Wellness House programs at just the right time and just the right place. And Roxy describes the unbreakable strength she found through counseling, and a wig appointment that brought her dignity back. These stories illustrate the impact of community and support found at Wellness House.

It's because of you that more people than ever have access to life-changing experiences and a community that understands what they're going through. Participants of Wellness House programs made more than 38,000 visits last year, to programs at our main location, at our partner locations, and online. It's with deep gratitude that we thank you for your continued support that makes all of this possible. Together, we make a difference. Together, we are unbreakable.

Roxy

When Roxy was diagnosed with stage three ovarian cancer and stage four B endometrial cancer, she felt nothing. “I wasn’t afraid, I wasn’t sad. I didn’t feel anything,” said Roxy. “I was just numb.”

Not knowing how to react or what to do as a next step, Roxy entrusted her care to the oncologists. “I knew nothing about the disease and yet I was afraid of getting cancer all my life. I ran away from people with cancer. But, when it came to me, I just said, I need help with this.”

Roxy went through months of chemotherapy and suffered severe side effects including neuropathic symptoms. She was in tremendous pain, but the most jarring of all the cancer side effects was the loss of her hair.

“I didn’t realize how integral my hair was to my identity and my sense of self-worth,” said Roxy. “It was hair that my husband loved, that helped me identify who I was, and it was just falling out.”

Roxy was referred to Wellness House and was relieved to learn about our Unique Boutique services, where she sampled various wigs before finding the right fit.

“I went through the different wig styles, and tried them on until I found one I liked,” recalled Roxy. “And, when I turned around in the chair to look at myself in the mirror, I cried.”

Roxy began attending Tai-Chi, yoga, and nutrition classes that helped her manage side-effects, in addition to getting individual counseling with a support counselor.

“I met with Allison, and she was amazing,” said Roxy. “She was asking all the right questions, she made me feel safe and welcome, and I just spilled my guts out and cried to her.”

Once at Wellness House Roxy began to feel a difference in her body, her moods, and in her overall mental and physical health. Roxy continues to attend Wellness House and credits program staff for helping her to stay active while in recovery.

Alejandra

When Alejandra discovered she had stage 3 breast cancer the first thing she thought about was her family, who all live in Mexico. She immigrated to the US, alone, in search of a better life, and had not made any significant connections or relationships with anyone until she arrived at Wellness House.

Feeling a deep sense of dread and fear of death she found solace, friendship, and a newfound family while attending our Spanish Wellness House Breast Cancer support group. Alejandra calls the women in her weekly meetings “mis hermanas” – her sisters.

“The people I met at Wellness House, from the staff to the other participants became my family,” says Alejandra. “They gave me courage and hope that I could survive cancer.”

In addition to support groups and counseling, Alejandra regularly attends our yoga classes and participated, along with her support group cohort, in our Walk For Wellness House event this past Spring.

“It was amazing to see so many people together in support of each other,” she says while wiping tears. “I didn’t feel alone anymore because I was with my Wellness House family.”

Cancer Health Equity

Wellness House envisions a community where ALL people affected by cancer thrive.

What is Cancer Health Equity?

Cancer Health equity is the state in which everyone has a fair and just opportunity to attain their highest level of cancer health.

“Our Diversity, Equity, and inclusive aim at Wellness House is to formalize a structure of cultural responsibility and cultural humility in our programming development, design, and implementation. In doing so, we are better equipped to address the needs of those burdened by cancer health inequities including men, women, children, the LGBTQ+ community, and peoples of all races and ethnicities.”

Kim

Kim was living a relatively healthy life until she began to experience stomach pains. She didn't think anything of it at first and just continued with her daily routine until the pain worsened and she began to bleed. "My first thought was, oh my God I hope I don't have cancer," said Kim.

She rushed to the closest urgent care facility, where she was first diagnosed with Uterine cancer at the University of Illinois Hospital.

"When they confirmed that I had cancer I was in denial at first," said Kim. "I just pretended I didn't have it and that it wasn't happening to me."

Her children were also in disbelief and weren't sure how to react to the diagnosis. "I was afraid that having cancer would hurt my children, and it did. They didn't take it very well, and it put a strain on my family."

As a single mother of adult children Kim found it difficult to communicate about her cancer treatment and her symptoms.

"A social worker from the hospital recommended Wellness House," recalled Kim, who took yoga classes, nutrition classes, and stress management classes at our partner location Mile Square Health Center. "All the programs were wonderful, the people were wonderful, and I felt welcomed. Nobody judged me and they accepted me for who I am and understood what I was going through."

Kim also made a consultation with our Unique Boutique where she was provided a wig and hair loss consultations.

"I cried so hard when my hair started falling out. Losing my hair is what really made it hit home for me. I just couldn't deal with it. But the lady at the wig boutique was gentle and patient with me and after I put on my wig I felt so much better," said Kim.

"Wellness House really helped us as a family," said Kim. "All people are welcome at Wellness House. It's a wonderful place with wonderful people who have made all the difference in my life."

Together, we remove barriers

Our community-based partnership model addresses cancer health inequity by eliminating barriers through partnerships, community engagement and community-based organization collaboration. It's about building trust, sharing information and working together with mutual learnings to reduce disparities and improve outcomes.

Partnerships play an important role in increasing access to life-changing support at Wellness House. Community building is critical to addressing issues affecting the well-being of people impacted by cancer.

Wellness House Functional Expenses (FY 2023)

We don't charge participants for any of the programs we offer, we know that they have tremendous value to those who are impacted by cancer. Every donation makes a difference. That is why your support is so vital to our continued efforts to offer these services. We take great care in how we expend our resources.
